

CCC Fellows Retreat

Day 1

- What is Collaborative Conservation? Fellows provide their thoughts on what collaborative conservation is. (Then refer back to this table at mid-point of fellowship to see what their perspectives are at that time.)

Multiple stakeholders	Long term	Leadership
Diverse world views and values	Place based	Champion
Local knowledge	Land management	Well defined process
Building relationships	People and land	Change
Inherit conflict and compromise	Balance btwn resource use & development	Shared power
Results oriented	Equity and social justice	Shared vision
Communication – in all directions	Well defined roles	Transparency
Resource pooling	friendship	ownership

- Why do collaborative conservation? Fellows provide their thoughts on why the collaborative approach to conservation is important. (This question will be asked again at fellowship midpoint to see change)

Buy-in from stakeholders	More options and opportunities	Mutual learning
Lead to more durable and sustainable solutions	To avoid litigation	Sense of ownership
Cover each other's weaknesses	Stop duplication of efforts	Resource opportunities
Can avoid escalating conflict	Together you reach higher

- Why would you not do collaborative conservation?

Frustrating	Time consuming
-------------	----------------